Character Analysis

Jay Gatsby

Gatsby is the enigmatic protagonist, whose rise from James Gatz to the wealthy Jay Gatsby epitomizes the American Dream's promise of reinvention. His lavish parties and relentless hope for Daisy's love mask a profound loneliness and a fixation on the past. Gatsby's character raises questions about authenticity, ambition, and the cost of achieving one's desires.

Nick Carraway

Nick serves as the novel's moral compass and narrative anchor. His Midwestern values contrast with the decadence of the East Coast, and his growing disillusionment reflects the broader critique of the era's excesses. Nick's perspective provides readers with an accessible entry point into the novel's complex social dynamics.

Daisy Buchanan

Daisy embodies both the allure and the hollowness of wealth. Her voice, described as "a voice that made the whole world seem to be in a kind of quiet, "sings" the novel's themes of desire, entitlement, and the illusion of happiness. Daisy's character underscores the limited agency afforded to women in the 1920s.

Tom Buchanan

Tom's brutish demeanor and overt racism illustrate the entitlement of the old aristocracy. He is a foil to Gatsby's self made wealth, highlighting the tension between inherited privilege and self made success.

Jordan Baker

Jordan, a professional golfer and Nick's love interest, represents the new, independent woman of the Jazz Age. Her cynical outlook and dishonest behavior reveal the moral ambiguity that permeates the novel's social milieu.

Myrtle Wilson

Myrtle's tragic fate illustrates the novel's critique of class disparity. Her desperation to escape poverty and her tragic death underscore the destructive nature of the American Dream when it is pursued at the expense of moral integrity.

Themes and Motifs

The American Dream

Fitzgerald portrays the American Dream as a seductive promise of upward mobility. Gatsby's wealth and ambition are emblematic of this dream, yet the novel exposes its hollowness and the moral compromises it demands.

The stark contrast between the opulent lifestyles of the Buchanans and the bleak valley of ashes reflects the novel's exploration of class divisions and the social stratification of the 1920s.

Love & Infidelity

Romantic relationships in the novel are fraught with deception, longing, and betrayal. Daisy's infidelity and Gatsby's obsession highlight the fragility of love when it is bound by social expectations.

Time & Memory

Gatsby's fixation on recapturing the past demonstrates the novel's meditation on the inevitability of change and the impossibility of living in nostalgia.
